Administrative/ Biographical Sketch	In 1888 the Town of Welland issued $50,000 in debentures to raise financial support for the construction of water works within the town. The bearer of the debenture was committing $4 000 for this effort, with a return of interest at five per cent. A pumphouse was erected beside the hydro-electric power plant, with water being drawn from the Welland Canal. By November of 1888, water was being distributed to most homes and businesses within the town limits.
